

BLACK CORPORA

by Hyunjung Rhee

Sept. 5th - Oct. 14th, 2018

curated by Damien Anger

Carrie Able Gallery presents Black Corpora, a solo show of Hyunjung Rhee, curated by Damien Anger.

Hyunjung Rhee is a Korean artist based in New York City, where she graduated with an MFA from Pratt Institute. Having taught herself coding, her works seamlessly incorporate a more traditional art practice with technology. She examines the failures in the communication system and the transmission space through multimedia installations. It is from her own experience with miscommunication and linguistic collision that Rhee conceptualizes in her mechanized sculptures.

The exhibition will include two of her major installations, Entangled Description and Corpora as well as some of her drawings. The show will focus on the Entangled Description piece, a motorized artwork programmed to randomly rotate and make the text printed on the bands interact each other. The result is a loss of meaning and multiple smudged bands that she gathers and assembles to create Corpora, a two-dimensional work exploring this conceptualized linguistic collision.

Carrie Able Gallery opened in September 2016 in Williamsburg, Brooklyn. The gallery showcases the work of the renowned artist, Able, amongst the most exciting emerging visual artists. The artists showcased are discovered via an open submission policy and are evaluated by Lead Curator, Damien Anger, based solely on the art itself without consideration of CV or biographical information. While a commercial gallery, Carrie Able Gallery is mission based. The chalk board front door of the space showcases an ongoing community ephemeral art project. The gallery also hosts free monthly art classes for 8-12 year olds as well as a free monthly event, Living Arts Night, where poets and musicians are welcome to share their work. Carrie Able Gallery is a proud partner of the National Parks Arts Foundation. Private gallery tours are available upon request. Translation services are available in French, Italian and Mandarin. Keep up to date with the Carrie Able's Gallery's happenings on the free app available in google play and the apple app store.
